InspectVue Residential is the most advanced report-writer in the industry. It can be used with a desktop, laptop, pen tablet computer, or Pocket PC, and allows you to select from thousands of industry-standard narratives and create professional narrative reports in the same amount of time that it would typically take to do an inspection. Almost anything that prints can be customized to suit your unique style, and no computer experience is necessary. You'll be able to import digital pictures, and annotate them with a few simple clicks of a mouse, and then print your reports on or off-site, email them, or post them on the Internet, free of charge. The program includes office and marketing capabilities but, best of all, it is a mechanism of storage and retrieval that will allow you to store edit or add endless amounts of information, information that educates your clients, helps you to avoid litigation through superior communication, and relieves you of the task memorizing minute code details, such as how much a joist or girder can be notched, or when and in what places GFCI outlets were mandated, and what components are alleged to be defective or subject to recall. Just point and click.

If you're not doing commercial inspections you're missing out on a wonderful business opportunity, and there are so many reasons why you should be doing them! They offer you the chance to expand your business, enhance your reputation, increase your profit, and even decrease stress. Commercial clients are not emotionally involved in their purchases, and are only interested in knowing the cost of essential repairs, necessary upgrades, and continued maintenance. It's true that commercial inspections are not as plentiful as residential ones, but they're much more plentiful than you might suspect. They are not only performed as a condition of sale, like residential ones, but are commonly called for when a building is leased, or as a necessity for annual maintenance and reserve studies, and as a prerequisite for insurance purposes. And even though they may not be as plentiful as residential ones, they pay a lot better, and commercial inspectors are traditionally held in higher esteem and treated with far greater respect than their residential counterparts. All you really need to become a commercial building inspector is InspectVue Commercial.

Inspectors can now carry report-writers around in the palm of their hands, check code details; select from thousands of industry-standard narratives, transfer them to your main computer in a few seconds, then add your digital pictures and diagrams. Print a report in less time than it would take to complete a check-sheet. With two or more Pocket PC's, inspectors can work on a report at the same time. Imagine cutting the inspection time in half without sacrificing the quality of the report

"InspectVue is the easiest program to use, and produces the best looking report of any I have tried."
- Bruce Taylor, Home Inspection Associates
